One village one product concept

1771. SHRI RAVULA CHANDRA SEKAR REDDY: Will the Minister of RURAL DEVELOPMENT be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government have any concept of one village one product;

(b) if so, the details thereof; and

(c) by when such proposal would come into effect?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT (SHRIMATI SURYAKANTA PATIL): (a) No, Sir. The Government of India has not launched any programme so far on the concept of one village one product. However, the Government of India through the Ministry of Commerce and Industry is coordinating with Japan External Trade Organisation (JETRO) and Confederation of Indian Industries (CII) to examine the idea for its usefulness in India.

(b) One Village One Product (OVOP) was originally initiated in Japan, for the following reasons:

(i) to find and nurture products/industries that could best reflect and benefit each region; and

(ii) to reduce heavy dependency upon the Government and to promote autonomy and voluntariness among the people.

The principles of OVOP are oriented toward (i) creating globally accepted products that reflect pride in the local culture; (ii) realization of OVOP through independent actions utilizing the potential of the region; and (iii) fostering of people with a challengeing and creative spirit.

(c) Relevance of the concept and its applicability to Indian situation would still have to be studied. There is no time-frame for replication of the concept in India.
